"The Lord Be With You."

Pastor's Pen

A few years ago one of my nephews was traveling with his siblings and their mother. While pulling out of a drive-in restaurant, with French fries on his lap, a hamburger in one hand and a shake in the other, he asked his mother, "Mom, where are we going to eat after we eat next." He seemed not to worry about what they were going to eat next, but where after that. The "Good Shepherd" at the steering wheel assured her little lamb that he need not fear, just finish what he had in hand and lap. My sister was feeling less of compassion and more of enjoyable patience.

In our Gospel for today, Jesus takes His tired, little flock for a restful picnic across the lake. When they arrived at the deserted place, they found that it was not deserted any longer. The crowds from around and about were in need of being fed after they had eaten recently. They were hungry for food of all kinds, but especially for healings and teachings.

There's always room for a little more. They may not have even known what they were looking for; they were just looking.

When Jesus and His crew disembarked, He look at the crowd gathered like a hungry flock and He received them with "pity"? Not exactly "pity", but the original Greek word was "Moved to His guts". He was deeply touched, because they were gazing at Him as would a large flock of sheep, looking for food. Immediately after these verses from Mark's Gospel, Jesus has them assume postures of receptivity and feeds them as would any good shepherd. I can imagine that this huge crowd has gathered into one, but for different reasons, having different hungers. As they individually arrived, certain self-appointed ushers asked each of the seekers questions about what each was looking for. The ushers seated persons according to their responses.

Nearest the shore to the left was the group who had replied that they had not much to do that day and everybody seemed to be excitedly heading toward this place. They just went along with the crowd.

Next to that group, seated more toward the center, were those who wanted to get up close and personal with Jesus. They intended to question Him about His authority, his obscure family roots and why He seemed sometimes to violate His own religious traditions. They were hungry for a good argument.

To the right of this group were arranged younger folks who had brought their own picnic baskets and were enjoying their own self-sufficiency and smugly ate what they had brought while keeping their provisions for themselves. They came to see, hear and check out whether or not Jesus could provide even better stuff. They intended not to be moved in any way.

The ushers had done a good job arranging groups according to their intentions and desires. Jesus finally arrives with His mates and does not begin questioning each person as did the ushers. He seems to understand deeply that, no matter why they all came, He will receive them personally with deep-down humanly-felt openness. Jesus accepted them all. His heart extended arms around each and all, without separating, excluding, judging.

The human condition in all its forms was united in the one basic hunger. Each was hungry for completion. They represent "longing." They had not found satisfaction in fulfilling themselves. Jesus will miraculously feed their bodies. He knows that this food will not totally satisfy, that they will want more. He taught them before breaching them. He spoke to them about the sacredness of their deeper longings, their truer hungers, their fascination with answers which result in further questions.

Jesus knew that each would return to their lives again, but just maybe each was comforted in the awareness that this Person Who could teach and do wonderful things, loved them personally and collectively. Perhaps the sceptics, the arguers, the self-isolators were moved to be a little more tender and accepting of their own human insufficiency of all kinds. Perhaps they were able to live more honestly with their doubts, fears, questions and self-poverty.

As they were leaving, trailing near the end, there was a young fellow who kept saying to no one in particular, "Ya, but what is He going to do for us after the next feeding?"

We always want more!

Stewardship Thoughts

Today's Scripture readings present the theme of the Good Shepherd. The prophet Jeremiah warns those shepherds who mislead and scatter the flock that their evil deeds will not go unpunished. He prophesies about Jesus, the Good Shepherd, Who God will lift up as a righteous shoot from David's line. St. Paul reminds us how, through Christ, we are brought together in Him. In St. Mark's Gospel, Jesus shows compassion by taking pity on the crowd, the lost sheep, and begins to instruct them.

How can we seek a deeper relationship with Christ, the Good Shepherd? Do we, in the spirit of evangelization, encourage with love our brothers and sisters who have left the faith to reopen their hearts to Jesus — to allow Him personally into their lives? Begin by asking them to attend Alpha or another evangelization series at your parish.

No-interest Home Repair Loans for Detroit Homeowners

Mayor Mike Duggan has announced the Detroit 0% Interest Home Repair Loan Program. It provides $8 million in financing for eligible homeowners looking to replace or patch roofs, replace windows, upgrade plumbing, make electrical repairs, replace the furnace, and address structural or safety issues.

The program is directed at Detroit homeowners earning up to 80 percent of the area median income ($54,150 for a family of four), as well as households in designated areas of the city (regardless of their income). The program is designed to help homeowners fix deteriorating properties and help eliminate blight.

Loans are available between $5,000 and $25,000 for Detroit homeowners who own and occupy single-family homes. Homeowners who own properties with two units, such as duplexes, can be eligible for up to $50,000 as long as they live in one of the units. Loans are paid back over ten years. There is no fee for paying back a loan early. Homeowners pay back only what they borrow. To qualify for a loan, the homeowner must have occupied the home for at least 6 months.

Southwest Solutions is one of the nonprofit partners in the program serving as an Intake Center to help eligible homeowners complete the intake forms and start the loan application process. Our Intake Center is at the offices of Southwest Economic Solutions at 2835 Bagley, Suite. 800, Detroit, MI 48216. Intake forms can be downloaded on the City's website devoted to the Home Repair Program.

For more information on applying for a no-interest home repair loan, please contact Southwest Economic Solutions at 313-841-9641 or online. We encourage you to download the application (or pick one up from our office), fill it out and assemble the required documents, and then contact us to schedule an appointment to review the application and submit it on your behalf.
